Stuart, Fla. (September 17, 2010) – Ken Ringe, president of Bayview Construction, today announced Charles Cangianelli has joined the company as a project manager.

Most recently, Cangianelli was a project manager at National Disaster Solutions where he oversaw construction and engineering projects in multiple states. Prior to the post at National Disaster Solutions, Cangianelli was the director of building and code enforcement for the City of Fort Pierce

A certified general contractor in ten states (Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Texas, Utah and California), Cangianelli is also licensed in Florida as a certified building official, certified building inspector, a structural concrete and masonry inspector, and as a certified roofing contractor.

“Charles brings a solid set of construction related experience to our team and to our clients, including architectural and engineer design build, mold remediation and prevention, and first-hand working knowledge of FEMA construction codes and standards,” said Ringe.

Cangianelli holds a bachelor’s degree in architecture from the New York Institute of Technology and an associate’s degree in business administration from the University of the State of New York.

Cangianelli serves on the board of the Boys and Girls Club of St. Lucie County, and is a member of the American Institute of Architects, Building Officials Association of Florida, Florida Historic Preservation Association, and American Institute of Steel Construction.

Born in Hoboken, New Jersey, Cangianelli moved to Florida in 1978 and now resides in Jensen Beach with his wife Terry. He enjoys geocaching, boating and travel.

Bayview Construction, headquartered in Stuart, is a certified state-licensed general contractor. A national award-winning company in construction and safety, and a Builder of the Year award recipient by the Treasure Coast Builders Association (TCBA), Bayview has been in business for more than 32 years.
